MERCY FOR NAKANO BECAUSE HE WORKS

One hour's imprisonment and the costs of court was the sentence imposed yesterday morning by Judge Woodruff upon Nakano, the Japanese who the day before interrupted his trial under the Edmunds Act to plead guilty.

The mercy of the court was extended to Nakano because of the surprising fact that he works for a living. This circumstance impressed both the Judge and the United States District Attorney, and it was the latter who sug-gested that a merely nominal sentence be imposed, as a sort of reward of merit or encouragement of industry.

Nakano, the District Attorney sta-ted, does not fall into the class of parasites that the government is making such a vigorous effort to suppress and send to jail. Nakano did not even have to go to jail. His imprisonment was merely technical. Breckons suggested that he inil. be sentenced to an hour's imprisonment at hard labor, adding that the United States District Attorney might have some books that needed dusting. And such was the sentence. Another in-dictment that has been brought against Nakano will be held over his head until Nakano will be held over his head until he proves by good behavior that his reformation is lasting. Nakano works for a local eigar store, and it was rep-resented by his attorney, Charlie Chil-lingworth, that if he were given a long sentence, he would probably lose his job.

The Judge said he thought it better to have a Japanese earning an honest living than lying in jail.

Co. 5s, 101. FISHES MILK IN

OLD DOMINION

RICHMOND, Va., July 31.—Timothy Sullivan, of the Osborne turnpike, has been noticing for some time that one of his newly fresh cows did not give any milk. Suspecting that some one was milking the cow he instructed his son to watch her. The cow went into the creek in the afternoon, wading in until her udder touched the water. In a moment or two the lad saw something fluttering around the udder. He thought at first it was a snake, but upon going closer he saw two large fish, which looked like mullets or German carp. The fish bung to the udder of the cow until she had been milked dry. Sullivan will now attempt to rid his pasture stream of all fish.
